

COMPANY PROFILE

Put your brand in front of the Saudi shopper at the moment of decision

A Saudi platform for offers and buying content. We build your brand a permanent presence — a page, a content cluster, comparisons — and deliver it to the shopper through three channels they already use today: Google Search, AI assistants, and Telegram.

THE PLATFORM

A Saudi platform built on verified offers

Deal Pulse KSA is a wholly Saudi-owned platform that brings brands' offers and buying content together in one place, and delivers them to the shopper at the exact moment they are searching. We run on one rule we do not bend: no offer is published before it is verified — because an expired code damages the brand's reputation before it damages ours.

VISION

The most trusted reference for a real deal

To be the first destination and the most trusted reference for discovering offers in the Kingdom and the region — not through the longest list, but through the most accurate and honest content.

MISSION

A smarter purchase in less time

To help the Saudi shopper make an informed decision that saves their time and money — and to help the brand reach them at the moment of intent, not before it.

THREE CHANNELS, ONE AUDIENCE

Website & content

A permanent page for every brand, an Arabic buying-guide library, and seasonal campaign pages — on a modern, fast, well-indexed technical base.

Telegram bot

Direct reach to the shopper: search, instant offers, favourites and alerts — with no app download and no sign-up friction.

Mini app

A full browsing interface inside Telegram, wired to the same source and updated at the same moment.

What we offer a brand is one thing: ready purchase intent. Someone searching for an offer or a discount code has already chosen the product — all that remains is completing the order. That is the shortest path between content and a sale, and the least wasteful in spend.

WHAT WE BUILD FOR YOU

Six services, each with a tangible deliverable

A permanent brand page

A landing page in your brand's name carrying its offers, description and visual identity, on a stable URL with structured data — an asset that keeps working after the campaign ends, not an ad that switches off with the budget.

Comparisons & buying guides

"Best of" round-ups, brand-versus-brand comparisons, category and pricing guides — the formats the shopper reads in the last step before ordering, and the formats AI assistants quote.

Search visibility (SEO)

Purchase-intent keyword research, title and description craft, structured data, internal linking, and indexing requests followed through until the page actually appears.

Seasonal campaign pages

Ramadan, National Day, White Friday, back to school — a ready season page wired to a permanent occasions calendar, for the windows where demand peaks and the decision window narrows.

Distribution & brand story

Delivering your offer through the Telegram bot, the mini app and our social accounts, with placement on the platform's front end, plus a story-format visual slot for a product launch or a limited campaign.

Measurement & reporting

Views of your page, engagement with your offer, and how your pages perform in search — from our own tracking system, shared on a regular cycle without varnish, so you can judge the channel yourself.

Why this works for a large brand in particular

Your paid campaign buys attention that stops the moment the budget does. What we build with you stays: a page and a content cluster that keep bringing in searchers months later, and that get quoted inside the AI answers shoppers now consult before they buy. The two channels complement each other — they do not compete.

INSIDE THE SERVICE

How we build your presence — layer by layer

We do not publish one page and walk away. Presence that holds in search is built in four layers that feed each other, on a technical base readable to search engines and AI assistants alike.

LAYER 1The brand page

A fixed destination in your name holding the offer, the description and the identity — every link points to it.

LAYER 2The comparison & guide cluster

Interlinked articles around your category and the questions its audience actually asks.

LAYER 3The season page

A seasonal gateway that rises with peak demand and links to your brand at the decision moment.

LAYER 4The internal link network

Wired together deliberately, so page authority accumulates instead of scattering.

The technical layer underneath

- ✓ Structured data on every brand page, in the format search engines read
- ✓ Speed and indexing — a modern stack, with indexing requested and tracked
- ✓ Explicit access for AI crawlers — permission granted, not blocked
- ✓ Stable URLs that do not break — the page keeps its address after the campaign

Exactly what you receive

- ✓ A published brand page on its permanent URL
- ✓ A written, published and interlinked article & comparison cluster
- ✓ A season page when the campaign coincides with an occasion
- ✓ Distribution assets across our three channels
- ✓ A performance report with recorded figures at the end of the period

Pages stay live and maintained for the whole agreed term — offers refreshed, expired codes pulled, content revised as the season turns.

THE CHANNEL THE MARKET OVERLOOKS

When the shopper asks an AI assistant instead of a search engine

Search behaviour has shifted. Shoppers now ask an AI assistant "what's the best..." and take the answer without opening a single search result. Whoever is named inside that answer wins; whoever is not simply disappears — regardless of ad spend.

The search engines of the next generation

Our pages are already cited inside AI assistant answers, and our presence there keeps growing. The shopper asks the assistant and takes the answer as given — whoever is named inside it wins before the competition for search results even begins.

Why this is hard to copy

This channel cannot be bought with advertising or shortcut with budget. It requires a technical base that lets AI crawlers read the site, original Arabic content deep enough to be worth quoting, and consistent editorial work without interruption. We built it early, and it works today.

- ✓ Infrastructure explicitly open to AI assistant crawlers
- ✓ Original Arabic content worth quoting — not translated
- ✓ Structured data on every brand page

AND THE REST OF WHAT WE DO WELL

Verified before published

No offer goes live before it is tested. An expired code on a third-party site reads as a let-down by the brand itself.

Genuine Arabic depth

An Arabic guide library that keeps growing, written for the Saudi market, its dialect and its questions — not translated content.

Telegram as a channel

A presence built on a platform with wide local reach that most competitors overlook.

GUARANTEED IN WRITING

Your brand in hands that will not trade on it

Working with a third party that publishes under your brand's name is a risk before it is an opportunity. These commitments are what make that risk a measured one — and they form part of the agreement, not a verbal promise.

No unverified offer published

Every offer is tested before it goes live and pulled the moment it expires. We do not leave a dead code carrying your name.

No bidding on your brand name

We do not bid on your brand name or its variants in paid search. We do not compete for your own visitor, and we do not inflate your keyword cost.

No competitor code beside yours

Your brand page carries no competing offer and no diversion to one — even where the competing discount is larger.

Your content stays yours

What we produce for your brand is a lasting asset that works for you, governed by whatever the agreement sets out.

Reporting without varnish

We present figures exactly as the system recorded them, with their sources and dates — including what did not work.

Full confidentiality

The terms and figures of the agreement never leave us. We are ready to sign an NDA before any detailed discussion.

Clear disclosure to the reader

We disclose the commercial relationship inside the content, as search engine policy requires — your content is never read as a hidden ad.

White-hat marketing only

No doorway pages, no keyword stuffing, no technique that breaches search engine guidelines. What we build in your name cannot expose you to a penalty.

And on detailed numbers

We measure by quality of intent rather than volume of visits: whoever reaches us is at the end of the buying journey, not the start. Detailed performance figures are shared under an NDA — or, more straightforwardly, we begin with a short pilot campaign and you measure the result yourselves, on your own systems.

HOW WE WORK TOGETHER

Models that fit different objectives

We usually start with a single model for a fixed period, then expand according to the measured result. Scope and pricing are discussed against the size and duration of the campaign.

Seasonal campaign

An integrated package around one season: a season page, supporting content, front-end placement, and distribution across our channels — for an agreed duration and fee.

Content sponsorship

Arabic editorial production around your category and products, serving your presence in search and in AI answers, and remaining a permanent asset for you.

An exclusive offer for our audience

An offer or code specific to Deal Pulse users — giving you clean attribution and an accurate read on this channel alone.

Performance partnership

A collaboration based on results achieved, with no upfront cost — through whichever attribution mechanism your brand uses.

What we need from you to start

Your visual identity, an approved boilerplate, the offer details and duration, and a single point of contact. We ask for no technical integration and no change to your storefront — production, publishing and measurement are on us.

Legal & commercial standing

A wholly Saudi-owned entity, registered under a freelance work permit issued by the Ministry of Human Resources and Social Development. We are ready to sign a services agreement and an NDA, and to complete your vendor registration process.

THE PROCESS

From first meeting to first result

1

A short introductory call

We understand the campaign objective, the target audience and the season, and propose the most suitable model — with no commitment on your side.

2

A written publishing plan

We send a clear plan: what will be published, where, when, and how it will be measured — within one working day of the meeting.

3

Production and launch

We produce the content, the pages and the visual assets, then launch across the three channels at the agreed time.

4

Measure and scale

A performance report with recorded figures at the end of the period, then a joint decision to expand, adjust or stop.

Let's start with a conversation

Send us your brand name and the objective of the campaign, and we will come back with a proposed plan within one working day. We are glad to present at your offices or remotely.
